

Dyma Ni Befriending, a project of Croeso Menai

Dyma Ni Befriending is a project of Croeso Menai, offering friendship and support to refugees and asylum seekers living in North West Wales.

Asylum seekers have to live in limbo for months, even years, before their cases are decided, during which time they are rarely allowed to work and only have £49.18 per week to live on (2024 / 5 rate).

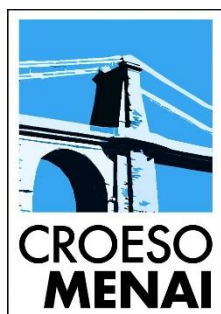

The rhetoric in the media and from opposing groups is often hostile, with inflammatory and negative views being commonplace. The reality is that our friends have a lot to offer to the UK – both volunteers and asylum seekers benefit from and enjoy the mutual contact DNB provides.

Our project reinforces Wales' status as a Nation of Sanctuary.

Our friendly volunteer group supports 2 drop-in sessions a week, walks and visits, foodbank referrals, gardening sessions (seasonal), conversational English and Welsh, help with obtaining clothes, essential kitchen equipment, signposting eg to health support, housing, education etc.

Volunteers can commit to one or two sessions a month, mainly for social activities or they can help our Core Team organise additional activities as above.
